Indian freedom movement stands distinctly in the annals of the history for the remarkable and voluntary contribution of women. The contemporary Indian woman, confined in the family matrix crossed the threshold and fought bravely against the British abrest of the men. Innumerable women, irrespective of their differences of caste, class, language, religion and region plunged into the freedom struggle displaying their outstanding courage and commitment. The remarkable contribution and vital role of women make the Indian freedom struggle not only distinct but also exemplary and exceptional in the world history. Their strong determination and selfless dedication to the cause of the freedom of nation made them a force to reckon with, which ultimately the British also took cognizance of.

This I.C.H.R. sponsored seminar aims at bringing into limelight, the invaluable and remarkable contribution of women freedom-fighters from all the sections of society in this Diamond Jubilee Year of the Indian Independence (Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav) and making their selfless contribution and passionate dedication known to the entire nation in general and the next generation in particular.

About the Seminar :

Globalization means the process of forming relationship between the nations, people and society among the world by social, economical and political agreement.

India is a land of agriculture. 69% percent people of India live in rural region having agricultural as their predominant business. But due to globalization multinational companies have taken part into agriculture. They are collaborating with Gujarat and Panjab states on contract basis. After globalization, there are many problems in agriculture, farming goods are imported from other countries. There is decrease in the speed of production of agriculture goods. Due to this there occur many incidents like farmer suicides, economical disparity, competition in agricultural market, predominance of rich farmers, causes peasant's suicide. Occur globalization causes economical disparity, rich become more rich and poor peasants become more poor. Some live luxurious life and most of the people are unable to meet even their fundamental needs.

So the globalization is a relevant subject taken into discussion. In these preceding years, positive and negative consequences of globalization have been discussed. This globalization policy has been in implementation in India for 22 years, so what are the impacts of the effects of Globalization on Indian rural society? What are the favourable and adverse effects of Globalization especially on Indian agriculture, small industries, women welfare, environment, health, social and cultural atmosphere? So, considering all these aspects the topic, "Impact of Globalization on Rural India" is to be discussed in the seminar.

Sub-themes :

- 1) Impact of globalization on rural social life.
- 2) Impact of globalization on Indian Agriculture.
- 3) Impact of globalization on Small Scale Industries.
